

Pete steps up to Area Sales Manager role

P601 certified Pete Ellis joined Filtermist in 2019 as an Installation Coordinator and was recently promoted to Southern Area Sales Manager for new oil mist filters.

Having spent six years scheduling installations of Filtermist and Absolent oil mist filters for customers throughout the UK, Pete Ellis is now bringing his technical knowledge and inter-personal skills to a sales role.

“ I mainly support end-user customers with localised mist extraction from individual CNC machine tools to ensure machine operators and the wider workforce are protected from exposure to harmful airborne contaminants.”

Filtermist works with customers in a wide range of industries including highly regulated environments including aerospace and defence.

“Providing the correct extraction solution first time is vital for all manufacturers, but even more so in mission-critical production or processes,” says Pete. “Our applications expertise allows our customers to concentrate on production without needing to worry about the negative implications of oil mist contamination.”

Pete, who has travelled extensively and lived abroad before settling down and starting a family in the UK, cites ‘Working for a company and with colleagues that care about the health of others’ as his motivation to begin each working day with enthusiasm.

When not helping customers, adventurous Pete enjoys spending time outdoors taking part in activities including trail running and paragliding amongst others.
